DIBUIX I IMPRESSIÓ 2002 MUNTAT SOBRE LLENÇOL D'ALUMINI

I laugh, turn, and begin to run, my steps light and long, my hair flowing in the wind. I tear off my red sweater and leave it hanging on the low branch of a pine tree. On reaching the rocks I lower myself slowly into the water, feet first. I stop when it reaches my waist. The water fills my navel and I lean back, my head resting on the rocks, looking up at the sky. The cool water caresses my body, and I spread my legs, giving it free passage. I hold my breath and lie there, motionless, thinking – "all things considered, I'd rather be at the beach."
